Learning project this week:

This week we our learning will focus on... Dragons

Below are the suggested ideas

- Research dragons in books and films that you know such as How to train your Dragon, The boy who grew Dragons and Shrek. Use this knowledge to answer the following questions Were dragons misunderstood? Why were they hunted? Did they really eat princesses or was there a lack of other food available? Why are dragons portrayed as bad throughout history? Could they really have been that bad?
- Using the image on the left, can you complete the picture of the whole dragon? Can you replicate the texture of his scales?
- Fact: Gargoyles are usually grotesque characters that are believed to ward off evil spirits on buildings such as castles and churches.
Question: They did have another, more practical use, initially. Can you find out what that use was? While you are researching gargoyles, what other facts can you find out about them? Is there a design that is most popular? What is the most grotesque gargoyle you can find?
- Watch this film clip of a dragonfly <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Lw2dfjYENNE> , What do you notice? Which adjectives and adverbs would you use to describe a dragonfly in flight? Write a descriptive piece of text or a kenning poem about it.
- Fact: Dragonflies are said to date from around 300 million years ago. Prehistoric dragonflies were huge animals with a wing span of up to 75cm. They are less daunting these days!
Question: What other insects and animals have survived from this era? How similar are they to the ones we know nowadays? How much have they adapted? If possible, record your findings on a timeline.

If these activities do not appeal to you, please access the Dropbox link above to find more activities to choose from.

All the above will also be supported via activates on SeeSaw.
